In Photoshop 2007, the "Crop" command can now automatically resize your images, making the task of cropping yourself a lot easier. By choosing "Crop," you crop your image file to its 4 corners and trim away all the unnecessary blank space on the edges, which can be a tedious task for retouchers. You can also then duplicate your image and use the "Mirror..." option to flip the image horizontally or vertically. This is recommended if you want to center your image vertically. Dragging a selection down automatically copies the selected pixels to the top, bottom, right, and left. In the cropped and mirrored images below, you can see this in action. Lowering the selection moves the pixels to the bottom edge of the image, making it easier to trim away the excess space from around the image. In this photo, the crop was applied to the bottom left, mirroring the image to make the subject in the middle the viewer's eye. In Photoshop, it is now possible to adjust the width and height of all the "Layer" layers. If you need to test out a change in width or height, simply "Lock" the layer so that you don't accidentally do any irreversible changes. Photoshop also now supports smart guides, which keep your edges straight by making them match the edges of your artboard. Looking for more?
